

WHAT'S THE POINT?

General rules:

- Time limits: Each speaker or team may be given a specific amount of time to present their arguments, with a designated timekeeper to ensure that the limit is adhered to.
- Evidence: Participants must provide evidence and sources to support their arguments. This could include data, research studies, or expert testimony.
- Rebuttal: Debaters may have the opportunity to rebut or respond to the arguments of their opponents.
- Points system: Points may be awarded to debaters based on the strength of their arguments and their ability to refute their opponents.
- Moderator: A neutral moderator may be present to ensure that the debate stays on topic and to manage the flow of the event.
- Audience participation: Some debates may allow for audience participation and question-answer sessions.
- Formal language: Debaters are expected to use formal language, avoiding the use of jargons or colloquial terms.
- Adhere to the code of conduct: Debaters are expected to conduct themselves in a professional and respectful manner.
- Decorum: The debaters should maintain a respectful atmosphere during the event.

Format:

- Team event.
- Each team must contain 4 members.
- Maximum number of teams: 8 teams (as soon as 8 teams are decided. registration will be closed.)
- Topics will be given on spot.(Related to tech)

Rounds:

Two teams will compete at a time. Later the 4 winners will compete and best two teams will go to finals. In finals, winners and runner up will be decided.